

THANK
A NURSE

#Celebratenurses

Celebrate Nurses is an on-going positive recognition campaign for nurses, their career and their contribution to society.

How did it start?

#CelebrateNurses began its life as an internal CSR project of Nurse Jobs Ireland in 2012 – since that time it has expanded to become a nationwide project which we hope will spread internationally.

How to be involved?

This space is for the public to leave words of thanks and praise for nurses who have touched their lives. Nurses are then able to read and feel appreciated for the amazing work that they do. We also feel strongly about promoting nursing as a career choice and for safe guarding the future of the nursing profession.

During International Nurses Week May 6th to 12th annually we collaborate, facilitate and partner with our companies, community groups and employers to #CelebrateNurses and to create greater awareness of this global celebration of Nurses.

All nurses are amazing for the work they do and the care and support they give to all our loved ones!!

A special mention to my super hero nurse, Lisa Loughnane, for the work and care she gives to everyone in need, inside and outside the hospital. She goes above and beyond everyday, and I'm so proud of her!! xxx

Nurses are the unsung heroes of the hospital, along with the other support
staff who may never get any credit.
The nurses have cared for my dad so diligently in the hospital and now the nursing home. They made sure my mom was looking after herself and coping okay.

Very proud to have known a nurse who went above and beyond for everyone, the most selfless person
I have ever met. She helped so looked after her in Beaumont and herself needed care, thank you!x

I spent 10 weeks on St Brigid's
Ward in Beaumont Hospital. I have MS and had a severe relapse which left me temporarily unable to walk.
The nurses and student nurses there are all exceptional and I feel so lucky to have had such fantastic care.
